

R.A.I.D. OPERATIVE HANDBOOK

I. Purpose of This Handbook

This document outlines the expectations, conduct codes, and operational philosophy of R.A.I.D. It is not a suggestion. It is law within the unit.

We are not a conventional force. We are deployed when everything else fails. Each member of R.A.I.D. is both a weapon and a witness. What you do reflects on all of us.

II. Operative Expectations

- Discipline is Non-Negotiable.

Sloppiness in the field is a liability. In R.A.I.D., every movement counts.

- Trust is Currency.

You are expected to earn it, maintain it, and never weaponize it against your own.

- No Lone Wolves.

Every mission is squad-first. Disobedience or reckless heroism will be treated as desertion.

III. Field Conduct

- Comms Silence is Standard.

Speak only when cleared. No chatter unless its tactical.

- No Civilian Contact.

You are a ghost. If civilians saw you, the op is already compromised.

- Equipment Use Must Be Authorized.

Personal gear is prohibited unless cleared by command.

- Zero Leak Policy.

What happens in R.A.I.D. stays in encrypted archives. Not in stories, not in private chats, not even after you're out.

IV. The Chain and the Code

- Obey the Chain of Command.

If an order puts your life at risk, you follow it. If it puts your integrity at risk, report it after the mission.

- Challenge Internally, Never Publicly.

Disagreements are handled through secure briefings, not team-splitting arguments.

- All Operatives Are Replaceable, But Not Disposable.

Treat your squad like your second spine. You lose one, you're broken.

V. Internal Discipline

- Tier 1: Tactical Warning

For minor breaches. Verbal or documented no more than once.

- Tier 2: Shadow Mark

You're under silent review. Your status is not announced. You'll feel it in your ops and command access.

- Tier 3: Black Tag

You're frozen. No missions. Under tribunal review.

- Tier 4: Burn Notice

You're out. Your ID is wiped. You were never with us.

VI. Operative Oath

"I don't serve for glory.

I don't fight for fame.

I enter the dark to protect the light.

I speak only when needed.

I move only with purpose.

I stand with my team or I fall alone.

I am R.A.I.D."
